JOURNAL OF PUBLIC MANAGEMENT & SOCIAL POLICY

Call for Manuscripts

The purpose of the Journal of Public Management and Social Policy is to provide a forum for scholarly research addressing diverse issues. Manuscripts in four areas of research: politics, economics, equity, and the environment are welcome. JPMSP publishes theoretical, applied, and/or discussion papers on public administration, political science, and public policy issues associated with the process of economic, educational, environmental, political and social well-being of diverse populations. JPMSP also accepts book reviews and review essays designed to bring literature to the attention of a wider readership.

All papers submitted to the Journal of Public Management and Social Policy are peer-reviewed by a least three outside reviewers in a double blind process. The journal is an ASPA section journal.

Manuscripts should be forwarded electronically to:
Managing Editor, Tony Carrizales (tony.carrizales@marist.edu)
Editor-in-Chief Byron E. Price (byprice@andromeda.rutgers.edu).

Proposal for symposia should be forwarded electronically to:
Symposium Editor, Charles E. Menifield (cmenifld@memphis.edu)
Editor-in-Chief Byron E. Price (byprice@andromeda.rutgers.edu).

Manuscripts should conform to the following guidelines: title, name, address, and organizational affiliation on the first page. On the second page include the title, abstract, keywords, and begin the text. Papers accepted for publication must follow the Chicago Manual of Style. Submission to JPMSP implies that your article has not been simultaneously submitted to other journals or previously has not been published elsewhere. The blind, peer review process normally takes up to eight weeks.
